BRIGHT BEGINNING--Lighting of the Christmas Tree on the Bethel common culminated Saturday's celebration of A Country Christmas in Bethel, and kicked off the local holiday season. In-town merchants have reported a generally upbeat mood--and sales--as the shopping season got underway. And for Santa and his friends, Christmas is always the brightest of seasons.

It's no wonder Musa seems to know so much about Bethel and beyond. In her 33 years at The Citizen, Musa's probably proofread 99 percent of the copy that has gone into the paper.

When Musa came to work at The Citizen it was run by the Brown family.

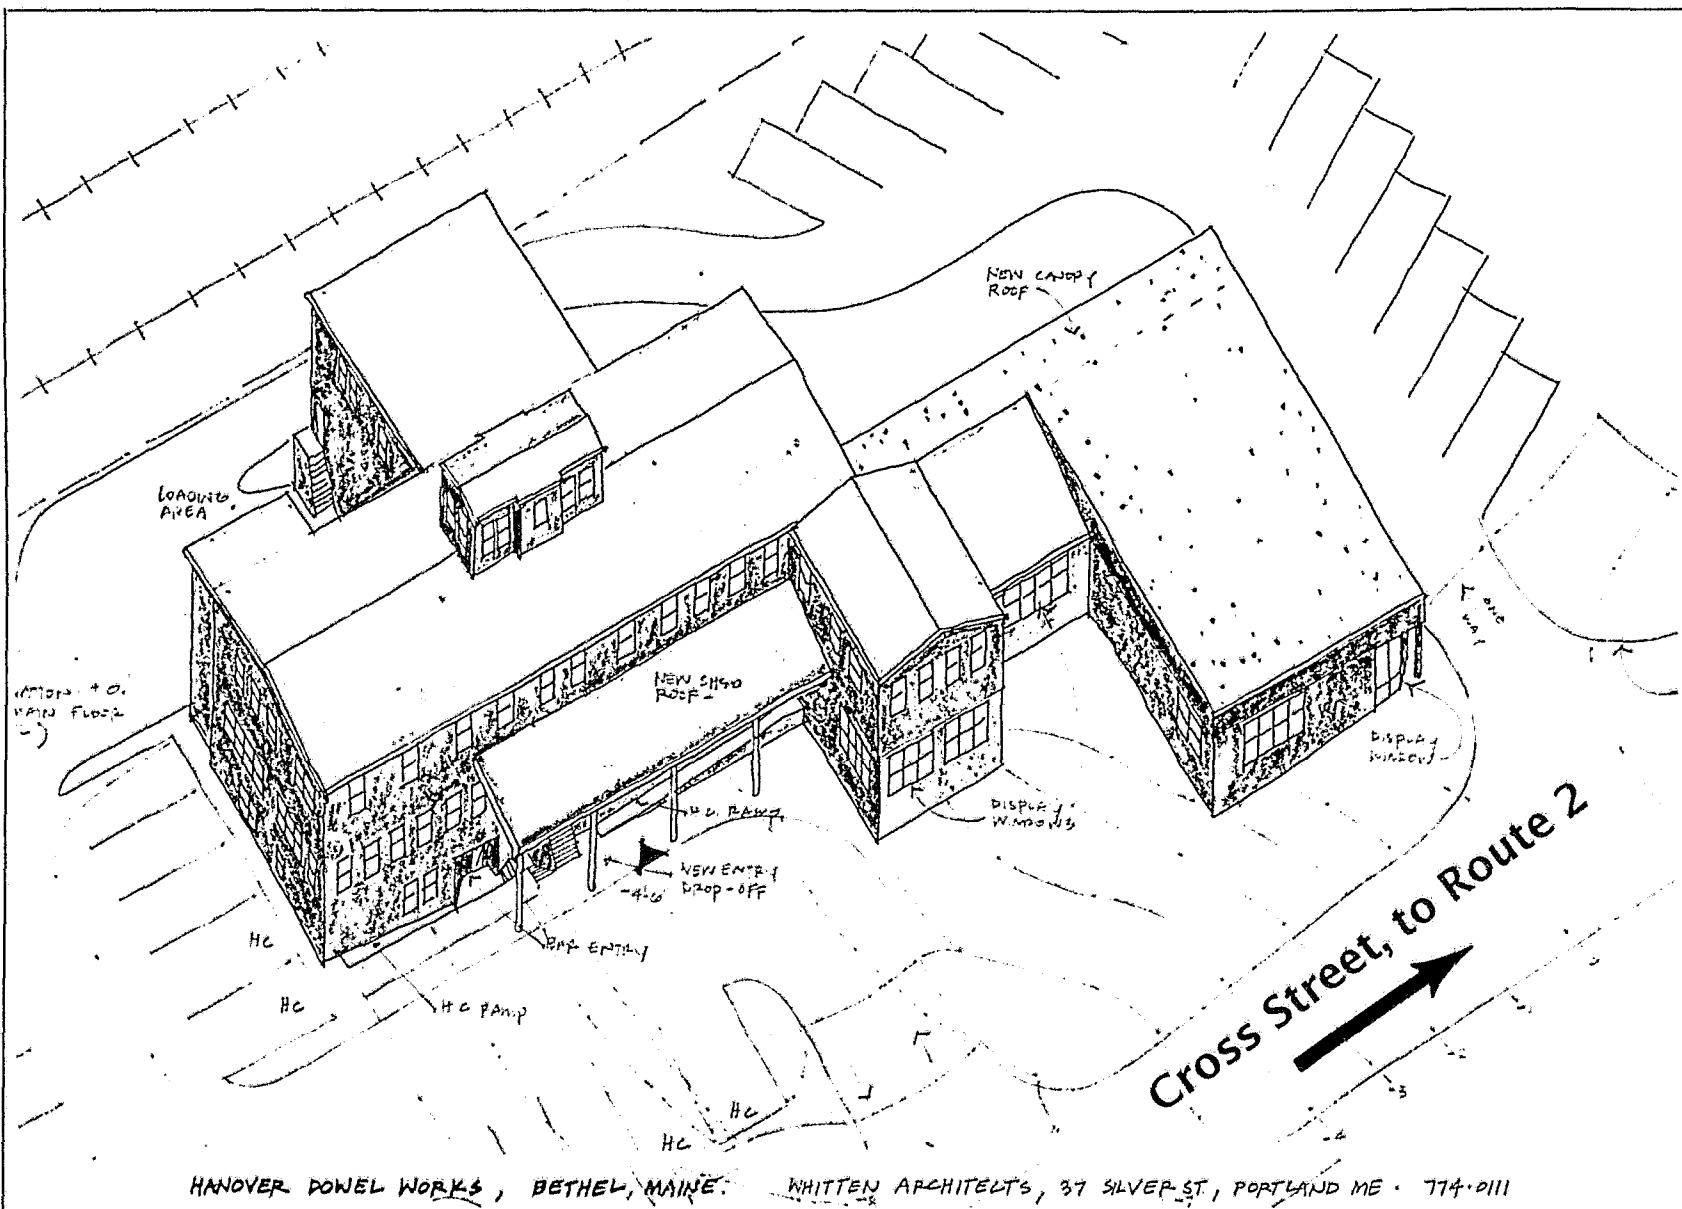

Carl Brown was owner/editor/publisher. His sons John, Donald and Musa's husband, Edwin, took the photos, set type and ran the presses.

Musa did much of the bookkeeping, proof-reading and general office work.

HANOVER DOWEL MAKE OVER?

He acknowledges it might not happen, but Dave Thurston hopes to be able to breath new life into the former Hanover Dowel Mill at the intersection of Cross Street and Route 2. The mill ceased operations in 1987, and was purchased by J.A. Thurston Company the following year—largely for replacement equipment for Thurston's own burned out mill in Mexico. The buildings have stood idle since, and town officials have expressed concern about safety hazards at the abandoned site. But Thurston now hopes to renovate the complex into 1200 square feet of mixed retail, office and other business space. Detailed interior and exterior plans for the conversion have been drawn up, and Thurston said he is now trying to determine if there is sufficient commercial interest to make the plans workable. If a package can't be put together by June of next year, he said, the old mill will probably have to come down. "There's a lot that's still sound in the mill," he said. "It could really be combination of the best of the old and the new. I'd hate to see it come down and one day be replaced by yet another pastel, gable-ended shopping mall. We've all seen enough of those ... and so have the banks."

Guest Editorial

Editor's note--The Community Chemical Awareness Team is currently embarked on a major effort to raise the level of consciousness in the SAD 44 community about the real-life impact of drug and alcohol abuse. Their effort deserves all our support.

As befits the community's newspaper, The Citizen had begun an editorial of support, but then we received, by chance, the following letter from James Austin, a highly talented artist who graduated from Gould Academy in 1972 and returned to Bethel to live two years later.

We believe that his letter brings home, far better than our own words ever could, the cost of drug abuse not just on the community, but on the young lives that are the community's future.

I'm truly sorry, Bethel

I was considered to be a genuine nuisance, Father, in that little town in the Northeast.

I brought many friends to that town in 1974. I remember walking up Main Street, telling myself I could belong and do drugs, get high, and be popular.

The friends I brought to town were for the most part drug free, but I was convinced that I was sharing a beautiful thing. I got involved in drugs and booze, was not paying my rent, not very good at business, ran up bills and wrote bad checks.

The townspeople were tolerant in the extreme. . . .

I got involved with a bunch of druggies, womanizing and bad sexual conduct. Though I did a lot of damage, I did more damage to myself than to anyone else. I crossed the line into alcoholism at the Opera House at the head of Main Street, and began wandering around town in a drug-induced state and an undiscovered secondary mental illness.

I made a lot of people angry and stole food and tools from the ski area--which I returned, items recovered. I took advantage of a lot of people's kindness and people helped or wanted to help, where probably no human power could have helped. I have since been encouraged to find a solution by my Higher Power, whom I choose to call "God."

I am truly sorry to those I have harmed or offended and for the damage I did. I must clear away the wreckage of the past or I will never get sober or stay sober. I owe a lot of money that I borrowed, and I did not pay back as many people as I could before I left.

Since I am mentally ill it is difficult to find a job and pay my bills.

I am grateful for this chance to make my amends to the citizens of Bethel.

SILLO FIRE--Jim Hudson's converted silo on Route 26 in Bethel was gutted by fire Monday night. More than 40 Bethel, Newry and Greenwood firefighters fought the blaze, which was reported around 8 p.m. The fire was difficult to bring under control, Bethel Fire Chief Jim Young said, because the building has only a few small windows. After the roof burned out, firemen poured water through the top. "It acted like a stovepipe," Young said. The building had been moved to the site and converted to a residence in 1989. A tenant, Scott Braman and a visitor, Sally Sawyer of Albany, were inside when the fire broke out, but neither was seriously injured. The fire started on the fourth-floor near the chimney, Young said, and he has asked the State Fire Marshall's Office to inspect. Bethel fire left the scene at about 11:30 p.m., but was called back again around 2 a.m. when Bethel police reported it was burning again. Hudson said that if the silo's cement-block exterior is badly damaged he may tear down what remains of the building and rebuild. If the blocks are intact, he will probably reconstruct the silo's interior, he said.

RECALLING HAZEL NEWELL

The Society has lost a valued volunteer in the death of Hazel Newell. Until her health limited her activities, Hazel could always be counted upon to help with a variety of Society projects, be it mailing the Courier, serving on a committee, or guiding in the museum. One of the organizations' strongest supporters, she was among the first to pay her dues each year.

Every time she came to the Dr. Moses Mason House, it was always much fun, since Hazel was such a great company. She was interested in so much and conversations with her were inevitably along the humor vein since she loved anecdotes and stories. We usually found a few to exchange.

I encountered Hazel in many of the positions she held in Bethel businesses throughout the years. She was always efficient, friendly, and reassuring. That latter quality was especially appreciated as I walked up the stairs to Dr. Trinward's office feeling like I was preparing to mount the gallows. As Dr. Trinward's longtime assistant, she made periodic visits to the dentist at least marginally pleasant times.

When the Society quarterly, the Bethel Courier, was founded in 1976, Hazel was among its greatest fans. She once told me that when an issue arrived in the mail, she and her husband Walter competed to see who would get to read it first. Throughout the past 16 years, I had Hazel in mind as I assembled each issue, knowing how much she enjoyed it. Now without Hazel, some of the fun has gone out of it. I will miss her and I know all whose lives she touched will feel the same way.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Over one hundred persons attended the annual "Christmas with the Masons" at the Dr. Moses Mason House Thursday evening. Festivities got underway at 6:30 p.m. with the museum decorated with boughs, fruit and berries much as it would have been in the 19th century. Mull cider was served from the winter kitchen fireplace by Persis Post. Assisting her were Sylvia Wight and Sarah Stevens. Judy Haskell and Helen Morton acted as hostesses for the evening. Old-time refreshments were served by candlelight and fireplace light in the dining room and parlor.

In the meeting room the West Parish Congregational Church Bell Choir played Christmas music. This was followed by old-time Christmas music played by Virginia Walker with group singing led by Don Vautour.

Following this portion of the evening, president Jane Hosterman called the monthly meeting to order, announcing that the January meeting would feature the annual contest "So You Think You Know Bethel." Mrs. Hosterman also reminded those present of the annual 25-percent-off sale, which will continue during the month of December until the end of the month. Mrs. Hosterman then introduced Sheila MacDonald, Maine Awards Chair of the American Association of State and Local History, who presented the Society with a Certificate of Commendation from the AASLH for the Society's outstanding record of publication in local and regional history. In presenting the award, Ms. MacDonald quoted an associate professor of history at the University of Maine (Orono): "In publications, Bethel ranks as the most ambitious historical society in the state." She praised the Society's outstanding record, now officially recognized by the nation's most prestigious organization in the field of state and local history. A social hour followed the meeting.

THE STAKES ARE TOO HIGH

To the Editor:

History reveals a retrospective of statements like "If I had only..." or "Why didn't I..." Right now we are facing a debate that could produce those same statements, unless we are willing to take a stand. High-stakes bingo is the issue. Before we start thinking about the pros and cons we need to simply ask ourselves: "Do we really want legalized gambling in the Bethel/Albany community?"

If you are like me you will say, "no!"

I don't need to hear all of the debate, because gambling of any kind is morally wrong. That is my decision and I am not about to mandate to anyone that they must believe the way I do. However, we all must live in this community together. We have to be sensitive to a balance that speaks of inclusiveness and divisiveness. With that in mind, we have to collectively establish the proverbial line in the sand so we can move forward with definition.

At what point does any moral issue press the debate so as to create the need for confrontation? Each of us has our own level of tolerance. Although I have never purchased a lottery ticket I have certainly taken a chance at a fund raiser for a non-profit organization. For some, a night at the Legion hall playing Bingo for a few dollars is great fun! Some may question the method (gambling), but we cannot deny the motive (fund raising). So, when does gambling cross the line and become intolerable?

I have personally never needed to define the difference between gambling as a fund raiser tool and high-stakes gambling. Ultimately, the difference is motivation, and legalized gambling has but one motive: profit.

However, profit as a motive to justify the risks of gambling is a two edged sword aimed straight at the heart. On one side it encourages a "get rich quick" mentality that defeats most and rewards rarely. It is a disease that denies individual productivity and contributes to the erosion of the human spirit. It can end in tragedy, the break down of families and an increased burden to society. On the other edge of the sword is the "seedy side" of easy money.

What kind of people and associated activities will be attracted to an area that encourages legalized gambling: bars, strip joints, prostitution?

Anyone who hesitates and questions the need for objection, should first decide where and when they want to draw the line that defines the differences between what is good for this community and what is bad. Imagine a day in the future when the first bar decides to provide topless dancing! Will that provide enough of a reason to speak out? If that thought startles you, just take a drive through any area in the country where gambling as a business has had the chance to establish itself. We have to start now if we want to set the tone for the future of this community.

OK, so we are only talking about one high stakes bingo hall. Some might say I am overreacting, but I am not willing to take the risk and sit back and do nothing. I don't want to end up saying "I should have..."

Are there any benefits? As a businessperson in Bethel I would be one of the first to benefit from an increase in tourist traffic. For me, it isn't worth it!

Other businesses might benefit if they cater to that clientele. Restaurants and motels could be busy even when the skiers are gone! Is it worth it? Jobs will be created, but what kind and for whom? Walk a few blocks from the casinos in Atlantic City and then tell me if the jobs created by gambling establishments benefited the local people. We need to work on attracting businesses that will provide long term employment to the area and the people that live here. We need jobs that keep families together and preserves a sense of community by providing long term economic stability, the kind that keeps our young people here if they choose to stay.

In the final analysis we have to be prepared to ask what the ultimate motivation is for high-stakes bingo. What price as a community are we willing to pay? Poor economic times and high unemployment should not weaken our resolve to do what is best. Our investment has to be in creating a community that nurtures pride, self respect and an environment where our children can find safety and hope. Any argument that justifies profit at the risk of our self esteem remains shallow and surely hides the truth deep beneath the surface.

NOT A BINGO BOOSTER

To the Editor:

This letter is meant to clarify my position on the high-stakes bingo proposal for Albany Township.

When Wendy Hanscom called me for my position, I made it clear that I could speak only for myself (as a citizen and a business person) and could not take a position for the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, who have not discussed the issue. In an extensive conversation with Wendy, I expressed a great deal of concern about the concept of high-stakes bingo although I did say that it could benefit the area economically if the organizers of the business used the local Bethel area to lodge and feed their guests. We do have a need to "balance out" the slower economy of the summer and fall seasons with the very busy winter season we experience. We have many new businesses that have grown out of our winter prosperity that indeed struggle to make it in the other seasons. Whether or not we want high-stakes bingo to balance out the economy will be decided, hopefully, by the voices of all the local people.

The interesting result of having my name appear as a proponent of this controversial business is that it has brought many of the opponents to my doorstep to explain why they think high-stakes bingo would be bad for the area. These concerns are very legitimate and range from immorality and a violation of our quality of life to the fact that gambling is a disease of sorts and should not be condoned. I can say honestly that my personal concerns have been deepened by these conversations and I cannot be considered a proponent of high stakes bingo in Albany.

CHRISTMAS FOR FAMILIES

To the Editor:

The goal of Christmas for Families is to help provide some gifts for Christmas to families who could use our assistance because of financial, medical or miscellaneous problems that affect them and put extra burdens on them during the Christmas season.

Generally, children up to age 14 are the main concern, but if the items are donated a little something for all children in the household is included in the boxes. Also a little something for Mom and Dad is included whenever possible at Christmas time everyone should have a little something under the tree to open. This is especially important in one-parent families/households.

Christmas for Families encourages all organizations in the area to help in any way possible. Christmas for Families hopes to work with all organizations to insure that what few resources are available are used to the maximum benefit to the families they work with. Any organization that would like more information, a presenter/speaker to come and talk about the program, please contact Nina Wheeler 836-3600. Christmas for Families is very hopeful that they and other Christmas programs in the area can work together so there is no duplication of efforts.

Anyone wishing to donate gifts like crayons, coloring books, reading books, toys, stuffed animals, dolls, trucks, cars, cards, children's games, slippers, sweaters, clothes, hats or just use your imagination. Used items are accepted if they look like new, think of the items this way would you put it under the tree of your children.

Christmas for Families needs your help in providing their families with gifts for a Merry Christmas. Donations gift items, money or volunteer time are welcomed. Please contact Nina Wheeler at 836-3600 or Rt. 2, Box 346, Bethel. Thank you! Your time, donations and cooperation is greatly appreciated.

Christmas for Families is a total volunteer effort and the more volunteers, whether they be the creators, workers or packers the easier the job and the more children/families we can reach.

A benefit bingo party will be on Dec. 9 at 6 p.m. at the Locke Mills

TIME TO CHANGE THE SHIFT—When computers came to The Citizen, Office Manager Musa Brown, standing, had no problem adapting to high-tech publishing and bookkeeping. But now she thinks it's time to move on to new challenges. After 33 years, Musa will retire from The Citizen on Friday. Here she trains her replacement Angie MacPherson of Andover. A retirement party is planned for Musa on Friday, Dec. 11 from 6 to 9 p.m. at Michael's at L'Auberge, Mill Hill, Bethel. And it's all free, so please join us.

Musa

Over the years the community began to rely on Musa to help them get their family news, community bulletins and church functions into the paper, see that their weekly paper was delivered on time, order wedding invitations, fill their office supply orders and countless other tasks.

John Brown, who took over as The Citizen's editor when his father died in 1963, said running The Citizen without Musa would have been a formidable task.

"Countless times without Musa the Brown brothers would have been in dire straits indeed," Brown wrote in a May editorial congratulating 1992 winners of Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce awards.

"She was a valued—no invaluable staff member," Brown wrote. "She was the bookkeeper, subscription department, proofreader and salesperson at the local print shop."

"When the 'Brown Family at the Bethel Citizen' received the Henry H. Hastings Citizenship Award in 1984 after nearly 37 years of family ownership, Musa had been an important 'cog in the wheel' for over a third of that time. As she received her Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce Employee of the Year Award in May of 1992, in spirit at least, all of the members of the extended family of the 'Citizens' Browns' were present and saying, 'It's about time.'" again in 1989 to the Lewiston Sun-Journal.

"She was invaluable," said Citizen Publisher Ed Snook. "Musa was the one who knew the nitty-gritty of the everyday work and helped us through the change over."

"She will be sorely missed. How do you replace a legend. Who else knows that many people. She does it all. She's been the glue that's held the Bethel Citizen together."

"She's our institutional memory," said current editor Michael Daniels, "and the ballast that keeps us on course."

losing Musa will be another change The Citizen staff will adapt to—however unwillingly.

She's been teased for a year that she'd be chained to her desk before she'd be let go.

But she's made up her mind, and somehow she thinks that after a third of a century of meeting ceaseless weekly deadlines she's earned some free time.

(She also thinks all the attention being lavished on her is a bit overdone, she said. After years in the newspaper business, she was adept at being a "hard interview" for this story.)

"I've reached retirement age and I've made up my mind that this is what I'm going to do," Musa said.

"It's time for the younger ones to take over. I think you'll miss me because you all thought it was kind of nice to have someone to pick on. It isn't like I'm going to Africa or someplace. When you retire, some people say 'Don't go back.' I don't believe in that. I think it's good to have a good rapport with your co-workers. I'll be around."

Musa said she will miss a lot of things about her job.

"I'll miss working with the community," she said. "It's been fun getting to know people who come in here, new people who come in to town and people who work for different businesses. That's one reason

"What can you say about Musa other than that she's an excellent role model for anyone who aspires to be a better journalist, printer, sales person or bookkeeper," Wideman said.

"Her nose for news that should be in the paper and her ear for language that shouldn't be in the paper, her attention to detail, her desire to be helpful, her knack for concentrating on the good in people and down-playing the bad, and her ability to listen without judging exemplify the best traits of The Citizen. And, I might add, some of the best traits of a human being."

"During the years that I was privileged to be a part of The Citizen, I felt that Musa was the soul of the paper, as well as the office's most visible link with the community."

Musa continued to be a community link when the paper was sold

HONOR FOR STRINGS

To the Editor:

This year the violin students in Bethel have had the honor of being invited to participate and perform in the Dixfield School-wide Holiday Concert. The Dixfield School Band, Orchestra and Chorus will be performing and Art students will have a show of their work as well.

This is a wonderful experience for our Bethel students since, in music, performance is an important goal. The Dixfield instrumental students are conducted and taught by Laurie

Kennedy, the principal violinist in the Portland Symphony Orchestra and the director of the summer Sebago-Long Lakes Chamber Concert series.

Because of scheduling conflicts, the string orchestra will be unable to perform in Bethel for a holiday concert. However, we hope to have a concert here in the Spring.

The concert will be held at Dirigo High School, in Dixfield, Dec. 15, at 6:30 p.m. All are welcome.

From the Bethel Police log:

Harassment complaint leads to pot bust; three accidents in Monday's storm

A Big Apple clerk told police late Thursday evening that after she refused to sell alcohol to four men they became verbally abusive and profane. The men left before Officer Darren Tripp arrived. The clerk told police that when the men were asked to provide identification they presented Massachusetts driver's licenses that were either torn or split, so she refused to sell them beer. She then gave police the license plate number of the vehicle the subjects were driving.

Police located the vehicle at the Riverside Motel on Route 26. Tripp and Oxford County Sheriff's Deputy Frank Blauvelt, Jr. asked the hotel manager for the subject's room number. Tripp reported that the men reluctantly let the two officers into the room. He states that as he entered "the room was full of smoke and a strong order of marijuana ... and marijuana stems and leaves were on the table and counter."

All four men were summoned for possession of a usable amount of a scheduled drug (marijuana) including: Eric Hunt, 23, of Mansfield, Mass.; Gregory E. Johnson, 19, of Norton, Mass.; James Spring, 23, of Mansfield, Mass. and Richard Best, 21, of Mansfield, Mass.

Monday's snow flurries resulted in three accidents with no injuries in Bethel. At 1:35 a.m. police responded to a vehicle off the road on Route 26 on Hudson's Hill. Norman Ford, 87, of Bethel was headed north when he lost control of his vehicle, crossed the center-line and struck a tree. The car was totaled, according to police.

At 1:49 p.m., police went south about a mile on Route 26 to an accident near the Rabbit Road. Elsie Bonney, 38, of Bethel lost control of her vehicle and went off the road. Damage to the car was minor.

At 2:50 p.m., Verna Lister, 59, of Bath also lost control of his vehicle and hit the guard rail near the Rabbit Road. Damage: $1,000.

BINGO!—Oxford County Headstarts hit the jackpot recently when the Jackson-Silver Post and the Passamaquoddy Indian Nation held a benefit bingo for the five pre-school programs in the county. Here Earl Tyler, who helped organize the game, hands over the proceeds of the benefit, $2,850, to Community Concepts Director of Children's Service Deborah Laurent, left, and Community Service Worker Maryvonne Wheeler of the West Bethel Children's Center. The money will be divided between the five Headstart programs. Parent groups at each Headstart center will decide how to spend the windfall, Laurent said. Another bingo will be held tonight (Wednesday) to benefit the Christmas for Families project. This charity event will also be sponsored by the Passamaquoddy and the Locke Mills Legion Post. The game begins at 6 p.m. at the post.

Agnes Gray School

By MARTA CLEMENTS

Our music teacher, Dan Barker, has done it again! Despite school cancellations, workshops and other interruptions, he has planned a creative Christmas concert. Grades K-6 will present a gala performance on Tuesday, Dec. 15, at 7 p.m. in the Agnes Gray School gymnasium. The public is invited.

Banking began this past week. Several students have opened, or added to, a savings account. It is not too late to join. Every Wednesday is bank day, so think Wednesday's when planning to do banking.

We have a lot to do this month, but for those with inquiring minds, who really want to know: school gets out on Dec. 22 for the Christmas break and resumes on Monday, Jan. 4. The 22nd will be a full day of school.

Classroom news this week is from the Mr. Burke's third grade. All students, in their new reading book, are working on a unit about magic. What a fun theme for the Christmas season! The children are reading and writing about unicorns, the magic of Christmas, and are learning magic tricks. They are working on a project which will wind up both the November theme of friendship and the current theme of magic. All classes will be invited to see shadow boxes which will illustrate either friendship or magic.

Mr. Grigsley, our home/school counselor has been visiting the third grade to present his PUMSY lessons. This is a program which focuses on decision-making skills.

In social studies the class is working on map skills beginning at a very personal level, home and school, and extending from there to broaden their concepts and understanding of the world.

In math everyone is working with money. They are learning to add with money, by consulting restaurant menus, placing orders and adding them up. Making change and subtracting will be next.

Mr. Shaw, a Chapter 1 math teacher, is working with the third graders also. He has been teaching the children about ordering by making a systematic list. This is a very helpful strategy to use in problem solving, especially when learning about how many different arrangements of coins can be made to equal a specific amount.

The fifth grade class is welcoming a new student, Heather Linton. Best wishes for a magical holiday season from all of us to all of you!

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS: THE MAGIC JOURNEY OF READING--Educators from SAD 9, 17 and 44 gathered behind a one-way glass last week to watch an Reading Recovery lesson in session. On the opposite side of the glass, the Reading Recovery teacher and students are unaware of the observers as they go about the lesson. Reading Recovery teacher team leader Melanie Ellsworth, with clipboard, led the demonstration.

Reading Recovery at work

By JEANNE BOELSMA

Educators from SAD 9 and SAD 17 recently gathered at Woodstock Elementary School for a "Behind the Glass" training session on the Reading Recovery Program. The session was led by Melanie Ellsworth, a Reading Recovery teacher leader for SAD 44.

Reading Recovery is an intensive early intervention program designed for students who are at the highest risk of failing to learn to read in first grade. Ellsworth said SAD 44 is one of only three training sites in the state for the new program.

Children in the program receive daily individual lessons from a specially trained teacher. In the daily 30 minute lesson, the teacher takes advantage of discoveries the child makes and looks for behavioral evidence of the child's reading strategies.

The child is made aware of good strategies he/she is using and taught new strategies when necessary.

The lessons emphasize reading comprehension and are chosen to enable each child to build on what he/she knows.

The average time spent in the program is 20 weeks and children are released from the program when they can monitor their own reading, correct their own errors, and are reading at the average level of their class.

As one child finishes the program, space is available for another child needing intensive instruction.

The Reading Recovery Program was developed in New Zealand by educator and psychologist Marie Clay. It came to the United States in 1984 to the University of Ohio (which has trademarked the program), where it was refined and adapted for American schools. The University of Maine now has its own program for training teacher leaders, and SAD 44 is one of only three training sites in the state.

According to Natalie Timberlake, Chapter 1 coordinator for SAD 44, the program has been found to be cost effective in the long run because of the lasting benefits it provides to students.

It precludes the need for remedial help in later grades, and there are also few retentions and fewer referrals to special services.

Tires

The license was approved over the strenuous objections of Greenwood town officials, who argued that the Gordons operating history gave little reason to believe their promises to bring the site into compliance with environmental regulations.

And even prior to granting the license the DEP had been threatening legal action against violations at the site. The threats continued after the licensing, as the site failed repeated re-inspections, and more tires continued to be added to the total.

But until last week the Department made no move to follow up on its threats.

It is still unclear how substantive any legal action against the site might be.

Last month, the Maine Supreme Judicial Court denied an appeal by a Durham dump owner and assessed a $191,600 fine for various violations, including improper disposal of tires. DEP officials estimated 2 to 5 million tires were piled up at the Durham site.

But Parker would not say if fines were a possibility against the Gordons' site.

Deadlines missed again

By Nov. 1, the Gordons were to have established permanent corner markers for cells A, B and C and to remove all tires from an unapproved "cell D."

But Parker noted in his report of the November inspection that cell D had expanded to 110-by-100-by-25 feet--compared to a 100-by-100-by-15 feet when it was inspected in August.

Overall, Parker estimated that a total of 35,000 tires have been added to the site since his August inspection.

Parker reported: "The northern edge of Cell A was still less than 150 feet from the property boundary, but some tires had been moved out in an effort to establish the setback requirement and the perimeter had been dressed up. No visible additional progress had been made in establishing 35-foot separation between cell A and cell B. The 15-foot wide corridor still separated cells A and B. The boundary between cells B and C was adequate. A permanent corner marker had been set in place at the northwest corner of cell A as is required. No other corner markers were observed. The corrective actions stipulated in the May 6, 1992 notice of violation have not been carried out."

Parker said in August that continued illegal expansion was not acceptable to the DEP.

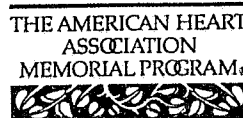

Town won't act

Greenwood has its own regulations governing tire disposal sites, and the Gordons have no local license.

But the town has balked at taking any legal action against the Gordons because of the potential expense involved. Town officials have repeatedly stated that in addition to lawyers' fees, the other costs involved could be monumental.

For example, if a town-imposed shut down forced the Gordons out of business and into bankruptcy, the town might be stuck paying $2 to dispose of each tire on the site, according to Bartlett.

North Newry

By GIL SEELEY

Mr. and Mrs. Ras Bachelder celebrated Thanksgiving Sunday Nov. 29 here at home in North Newry with about eleven relatives and friends attending. Karlene's mother, Julia Goodwin of Unity, her twin sisters Hilma Caldwell also of unity and Wilma Stewart of Thorndike, and great-grandchild, Kelsey. Also their granddaughter Michelle and her husband Paul Josephson of Portland, their grandson Tom O'Donnell also of Portland, their son Brent and his friend Terry O'Dowd of Rhode Island, and a neighbor Emily Beers and yours truly. It was a great get-together and delicious food.

Betsy Clark, Karlene Bachelder, Gil Seeley, Bea Lowell, and Doris Parent, members of the "Newry Bowling Gang" were at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford. Of the "lefties" Betsy was high on the singles and triples with a total of 311. Of the "righties" Doris was high on the triples and singles. Karlene had three spares. Betsy had seven spares and 1 strike. Gil had two spares, Bea one spare and one strike and Doris three spares and one strike. All went to lunch and did some shopping.

The Newry Mother's Club will hold their Christmas party meeting Dec. 14 at 6 p.m. at the Newry Town building. It will be a potluck supper and exchange of gifts revealing the names of their secret pals. Also picking the new ones for 1993. Let's hope that everybody shows up.

Task force notes:

The Bethel Area Task Force will meet Sunday, Dec. 13, at 7 p.m. at the Bingham House. We will discuss the Education Fair held on Nov. 13. Enthusiasm for the event was shared by the many and varied exhibitors, as well as those who attended. The newly published Education Booklet contains valuable information about "Cooperation and Communication in Education" in the SAD 44 area. The booklet was distributed at the fair and will be available to anyone who is interested; donation will be appreciated.

All interested citizens are welcome at the Dec. 13 meeting, where we will also have an update on Community Action Groups and plan for the future of the Task Force.

We're Fighting For Your Life.

Rotary Club notes

The Bethel Rotary Club once again met at the Bethel Masonic Hall for the December 1 meeting. Many thanks to the Eastern Star for providing a delicious breakfast.

It being the first meeting of the month, the program was club business and a report of the Board of Directors.

President Jeff Parsons reminded club members of the upcoming dates and programs to schedule for.

Tuesday, Dec. 15 will be the annual Senior Citizen luncheon. Rotarians have been asked to once again set up for the annual Nativity on the Bethel Common, which will be performed on Sunday, Dec. 20.

From the Bethel Area Chmb. of Commerce

A big reminder to plan to come to the Chamber's annual Christmas party at the Sudbury Inn, Sunday, Dec. 13, 5-7 p.m.

Plan to give at least a couple people on your Christmas list a Bethelopoly game, which is a lot of fun and a nice memento of the area. They are on sale at Preb's, Maine Line Product's and the Chamber office, all on Main Street, Bethel for $18 plus tax.

The David Carter family and managers Bob and Lorraine Johnson of Carter's Cross Country Ski Center on the Middle Intervale Road, Bethel invite all to come to their Open House on Saturday, Dec. 12 from 10-4 p.m. at their beautiful new facility, which is approximately three miles from the Route 26 turn.

Congratulations to Forrest and Gloria Young, owners of Evan's Notch Motel in Gilead who won the Christmas decorating Contest. The residential winners are Mark and Charlotte Bennett. Many thanks to judges Ginny Keniston, Nancy Murphy and Nancy Harrison.

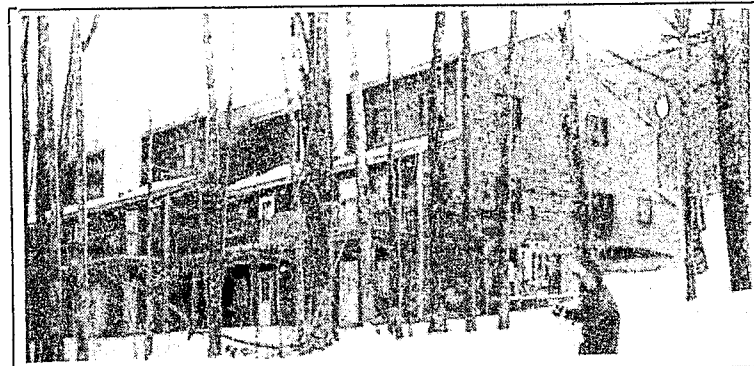

The Christmas tree lighting on the common, held on Saturday night was well attended although very cold temperatures prevailed. Many thanks to volunteers Ann Friedlander, Rene and Chad McGrew and Maria McGinniss as well as the Bethel IGA for the donation of hot chocolate, as well as Preb's for the candy canes. A special thank you to Santa's helper, "Bub" Wight, who is always a real pleasure to work with.

The Board of Directors will be meeting on Thursday, Dec. 10. Nominations for new board members will be considered as well as the budget for 1993.

CAUTION: A NEW TAX TRAP

This article is brought to you by Jane D. Gray, CPA

When you receive a distribution from your employer's retirement plan, it's tough enough to comply with all the rules about rollovers and special averaging. Unfortunately, the IRS is going to make your life even more complicated. Beginning January 1, 1993, the plan trustee will be required to withhold income taxes on certain distributions from retirement plans.

EXAMPLE: Say it's February, 1993, and you are about to retire (or leave your job). You have $50,000 in your retirement plan, and you have asked your employer to distribute the entire balance before you leave. As you are walking out the door, your employer hands you a check, but for only $40,000.

What happened to the other $10,000? According to the new rules, you have received a distribution of $50,000, but the IRS requires the plan administrator to withhold 20% for income taxes - in this example, $10,000.

If you roll the entire $50,000 distribution to an IRA, or into a new employer's retirement plan, the IRS will refund the $10,000 when you file your 1993 tax return (or apply the withholding to other taxes due). But how are you going to roll over the entire $50,000 when you received only $40,000? That's the catch: The IRS expects you to come up with $10,000 of your own money. Any part of the $10,000 that you don't roll over is subject to income tax. And if you're under age 59 1/2, any amount that isn't rolled over is also subject to a 10% early withdrawal penalty.

If you don't want anything withheld, ask your employer to transfer your entire balance directly to your new retirement plan or rollover IRA (this is called a "trustee-to-trustee transfer"). To ensure zero withholding on your distribution, you must start planning well before your last day on the job.
